

The blood pressure values are higher than expected.

There could be a few reasons that the CODA detects elevated blood pressures. The most common causes are external sources of stress, or cuffs that are too small or placed too tightly on the tail.

Please send us a sample of your data in Simple Report form, a few screenshots of the graphs from that session and a photo of your set up with the cuffs on the animals' tails. We will be happy to review it with you.